NUMBER 36

Pay New Hog Premiums Monday; Only 4 Grades Thereafter

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced late Friday that the number of grades for hogs now effective on Canadian markets will be reduced and the old procedure of establishing prices by applying discounts will be dropped.

Hogs will be purchased on the basis of carcass values in the various grades. All possible speed will be made with introduction of the new system but "some time" will be required.

The minister said, however, that a temporary arrangement has been made with the packers to put the payment of government premiums—$3 a head for Grade A and $2 for B-1—into effect Monday. These premiums were announced a week ago.

Announcement of the revisions followed discussions between the bacon advisory committee, the advisory committee on agriculture, the Canadian meat board and the agriculture food board.

"The procedure under which a basic price was established for B-1 hog carcasses and prices for other grades determined by applying discounts except in the case of grade A carcasses for which a premium was paid by the packers, will be discontinued and hogs will be purchased on the basis of their carcass value in the various grades," said Mr. Gardiner.

THE PREMIUMS

Government premiums, as already announced, will be paid in the case of grade A carcasses at $3 a carcass and in the case of grade B-1 $2 a carcass. The premium of $1 formerly paid by the packers on grade A carcasses will be paid on the carcass grade value for export bacon.

For the time being, the premium paid will be indicated by a stamp on the settlement forms now used.

NEW GRADING

The grades now adopted are grade A and grades B-1, B-2 and B-3 all B grades to sell at the same market price. There will be one C grade and one D

NEWS NOTES

Fifteen Raymond people were at the Temple Wednesday. A. E. Hancock, W. A. Anderson, J. O. Turner and Garth Wright furnished the vehicles for the trip.

Frank Rabusic, Raymond, was enlisted on January 20 in the R.C.A.F. in the Aircrew division and George Bullock was enlisted on the 21st in the Air Force for the same kind of work.

Elders A. E. Hancock and S. I. May were speakers at the Welling Sacrament meeting Sunday evening and a piano solo by Mrs. Emma Dahl and a vocal number by Miss Myra Dahl completed the program. The Stake Missionary group planned the program.

Gordon Brewerton, of the Mayfair Theatre, Cardston, was a Raymond visitor Thursday.

Grade E has been eliminated as it represents a comparatively small number of hogs including those condemned, stags, ridgings and injured, said the statement.

"These will be designated accordingly. Heavy hogs will include those that dress carcasses weighing from 186 to 195 pounds, and extra heavies will be classed on the basis of carcasses weighing more than 196 lbs. The list of other weights and grades follows:

Grade A, 140 to 170 pounds; B-1 135 to 175; B-2, 125 to 134; B-3, 176 to 185; C and D 120 to 185; lights, 119 and under.

Mr. Gardiner said new settlement forms were being prepared for the new classification and it was intended that payment of premiums will be made by government warrant to be attached to the new form and which the producer can cash at his bank.

Lions Charter Night Gala Affair

In the Opera House Monday night last, the Raymond Lions Club held their third annual Charter night, with a dinner, program and dance. Likas from Lebridge, Magrath, and MacLeod, with their partners, some invited guests from Raymond, and all but three members of the local Lions Club swelled the crowd that were served at the tables to 163. During the meal "tail twisters" representing all the Clubs got busy and made a nice collection for the treasury.

After singing "O Canada" and prayer by Lien W. W. Wilde, the serving commenced and Fruit Cocktail, Roast beef and pork, dressing, gravy, mash and potatoes, beets, parsnips, sweet pickles, rolls and pie a la mode, prepared by Mrs. Gladys Layne, provided a very fine meal for the hungry crowd. While the meal was being finished up, Lion Tamer M. T. King led the group in several community songs.

Lion President Golden Snow then called on Past President Paul Moreland, to introduce the speaker of the evening, District Governor H. James West, of Lacombe, and the District Governor gave a brief but spicy speech on Lionism, its aims and objects and some instances of where the spirit of Lionism had been shown. He praised the local Club for their aid in the improvements to the Opera House, which was a recreation centre of which any community might well feel proud and he wished that every Lions Club in District 37 had as nice a hall in which to meet as Raymond had.

He referred to the founding of Lionism in 1917 in Chicago by Melvin Jones, and said that in the local Club celebrating its founding in January, they were also celebrating the birthday of Lionism. He told of its growth to 150,000 members in 14 countries, and praised the Charter members of the local Club who had led out in fostering this service Club for the Town. Speaking of activities of Lions Clubs he mentioned one instance close to Raymond, where a boy had been burned about the hands and chest, and an operation required. The father was overseas in the service of his country, and the Lions Club of the Town had taken the case in hand and guaranteed the payment for the operations and care that might be needed. This said the speaker, was the real spirit of community service that all clubs should have.

He spoke briefly of the Club slogan "Liberty, Intelligence, Our Nation's Safety" and said that in his observations of the various Clubs in Canada that he knew of, every Lion was doing his full share to aid in the needs of the hour and assisting the sale of Victory bonds, Savings Certificates and War Stamps to "Speed the Victory." If we can look after our youth today so that they can take over the management of our country in their day and preserve our heritage we shall have served nobly and well.

The crowd then moved to the main hall and were entertained for 45 minutes by entertainers from the No. 8 Bombing and Gunnery School, the following numbers being given:

Instrumental quintet, piano two violins and two guitars in two numbers.

Cowboy song with guitar accompaniment.

Two bagpipe selections by pipers from the International Camp Guards corps.

Flt. Sgt. MacDonald of the R.C.A.F. entertained in a number of very good impersonations.

John Dykes, Lebridge, a great admirer of "Robbie Burns" the Scotch poet and philosopher, spoke briefly on the life and writings of Burns, whose birthday was celebrated this week, and said that the things the world is fighting for today, the ideals our state were holding up for us, are fundamental truths that lie at the foundation of civilization, were all referred to by Burns in his writings, and the speaker quoted from various poems to show his point. The talk was very greatly enjoyed by all.

W.O.I. Dick Kinsey, who returned to Canada from Portugal, on the recent Hospital ship, was called on and he spoke briefly expressing his joy at being home again in Raymond. He had had some wonderful experiences while in England, some of them close races with death, but he had returned again to Canada and was thankful for the part he had been able to play, and glad to be at home once again.

Another bagpipe selection was given, and then the floor was cleared and dancing enjoyed, with music by Nolan and his Canadians. Everyone had a most enjoyable evening and will long remember this charter night.

Operetta "Erminie" Presented Next Week

OUR BANKS "MEASURED UP"

Now that the pressure of the Fifth Victory Loan has been relaxed, and we have time to glance at the results and estimate the valuable part played by so many in this cause, it has occurred to us that one corps of workers may not have been so warmly appreciated as its work warranted.

We refer to the bank staffs.

Anyone who dropped into the local premises at any time during the loan campaign would always find the manager, accountants, and other employees patiently explaining and assisting a true would-be purchaser of bonds.

Try, enough, this came under the head of bank business. But the gain was really very small when set over against the sudden demands for such service, to say nothing of the added burden of internal records—affairs every member of the staff. For the most part, this work could be regarded as a vital contribution to the whole Victory Loan progress, rather than work in the line of banking duty. Such profit as accrued was small—except in this sense—that we should all now realize the part played by the banks. They measured up.

Culminating weeks of intensive work and rehearsing, the 1st Ward Mutual Operetta, under the direction of Gerald Gibb, musical director of the Mutual, will be staged next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the Stake House, the program each evening starting at 8:30 p.m.

The Operetta is "Erminie" in two acts, and is the story of a brother and sister who are tricked out of their fortunes and reduced to the necessity of daily labor to provide for them selves. The story of love and disappointment, and a finale of happy reunion and understanding makes a spicy and enjoyable performance. The operetta has been adapted for amateur talent by two well known L.D.S. men, J. Spencer Cornwell, director of the Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir working out the music of the production, and W. O. Robinson of the M.I.A. general Board the book and lyrics.

After the work put into this by the performers it would be too bad for any of us to miss it. So make a date for either Tuesday or Wednesday evening and take in this fine offering. See the ad. or the bills for further particulars.

Dick Kinsey Home On Furlough

NEWS NOTES

Both Raymond wards had a fine variety of speakers last Sunday night, when four were heard in each ward in short and interesting talks.

Good crowds were present at the show for the showing of "The Harvest." It was an excellent production and everyone who attended thoroughly enjoyed it.

The local branch is holding a luncheon at the Club Monday night next, honoring W.O.I. Dick Kinsey who is home from overseas on a month's furlough. All Vets are expected to be present, and the time is 3 p.m.

The R. Navy Club Monday was into a discussion of refugees in Canada from the Nazi dominated nations, especially those of Jewish descent now hoping to go back into service finding refuge in Portugal. In the instructional end of it, there was considerable discussion on the matter. The opinion seemed to be that we should take our share.

W.O.I. Dick Kinsey, after more than three and a half years overseas, serving with the R.A.F. is home on a month's furlough. Dick looks fine, and is as usual enjoying life.

He has been on a variety of operational duties while away, and been on 34 flights over enemy territory and in the thick of the ack-ack fire and flack. He was forced to bail out twice. The first time he sprained his right foot, and the second time, before the effects of the first jump had been overcome, he bailed out at about 750 feet with his plane on fire, and his chute was late in opening so that he really landed hard and broke up his foot pretty bad. He has been in hospital for a long while and will have another operation before very long.

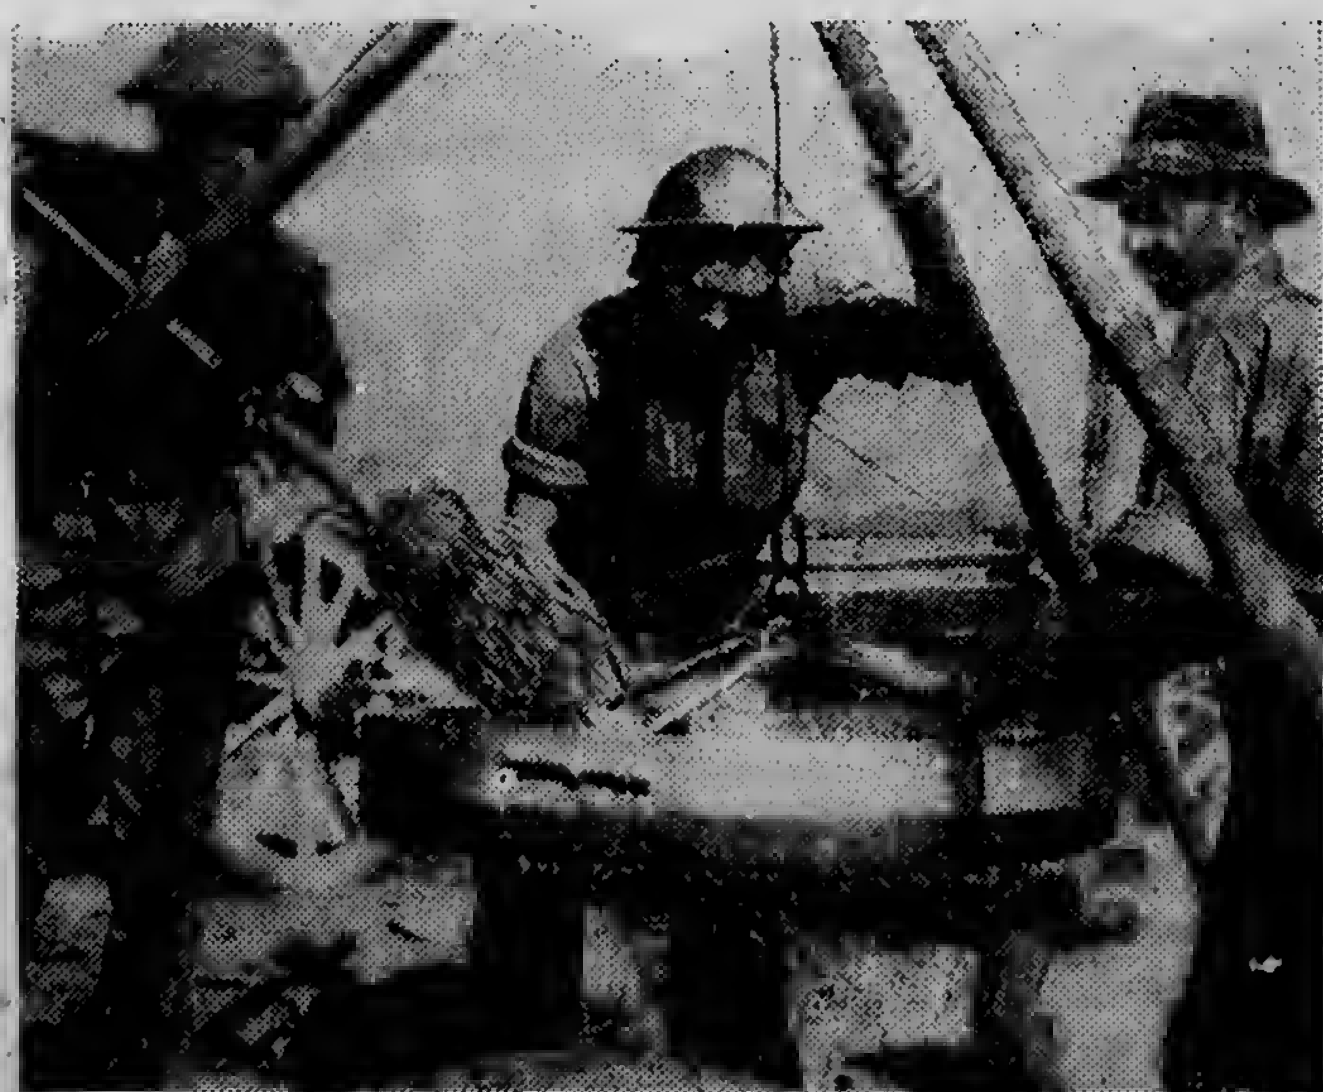

When his furlough is over he hopes to go back into service finding refuge in Portugal. In the instructional end of it, there was considerable discussion on the matter. The opinion seemed to be that we should take our share.

London Tommies Help In Italian Harvest

FARMERS AND HELPERS FOUGHT ON DIFFERENT SIDES AT ALAMEIN

A common sight in Italy in the late summer of 1943 was the British Tommy helping Italian farmers with the harvest. Three London men, all R.A.S.C. drivers, acted as temporary farm workers on one Italian farm. D. Garwood of Mitcham, N.A. Jenk ins of Battersea and F. Rowell of Shoreham, are all 8th Army men who have been in the fight from El Alamein onwards. The farmer they are helping is Fratelli Sessa, a released prisoner-of-war who also fought at El Alamein on the side of the Axis where he was wounded and taken prisoner.

It is easy for politicians to picture a tranquil life, sheltered from all misfortune by the all powerful hand of benevolent government, and to tell the people that it is only necessary to vote for such a life in order to get it. Such a life is what some people have in mind when they talk about social security. Those who promise this brand of security hope to bring it about by means of a planned economy. They have a motto: They do not proclaim it publicly, but they have it nevertheless. It is this: "A place for everyone, and everyone in his place." The motto is an essential part of their program. In no other way can the program be carried out. How many people would be satisfied with such a life if they had it? To be told that there is a place for you in the scheme of things is very nice, but to be told that this is your place and you have to stay there whether you like it or not, is a different matter.

Would there be any real security in such a life? Is there any such thing as social security, or any other kind of security in this uncertain world? Or is the thing we call security only a state of reverie in which we remain oblivious of what is going on around us? A great general once said that a retreating army is always tempted to seek security within the walls of a fortress, and by so doing it invites disaster. After the last war we sought security in dis-

WHY LOSE FREEDOM BY DEFAULT

It is not difficult in these days, in any days, to see the inequalities, the injustices, and the thoughtless practices that are crying out for remedy. Certainly no one would argue that they do not exist today. Few reasonable people would argue that they are as prevalent today as they were a generation ago. That does not suggest that we should not seek a remedy for these failures or should neglect to do our utmost to correct them. It does suggest that before we make a decision we should know what we believe, and we should know it by careful and dispassionate thinking and not by haphazard judgement.

One of the few happy results that may spring from injustice is an aroused public conscience. But we need something more than that. We need a public conscience with an accompanying sense of responsibility. If we are moved only to reach out and seize the easiest most immediate, and most plausible remedy, public conscience is of dubious value as a guide, and may indeed be a good impulse doing the devil's work.

Most people like to think of themselves as thoughtful persons. Sometimes, however, they mistake the acceptance of some one else's thinking as thinking of their own, and so error may grow to staggering proportions.

It is true that our belief in the unassailable wisdom of the people is the very fundamental of our democratic system. What we cannot believe is that the wisdom of the people ever springs from half-baked judgments. It is not enough to listen to some plausible orator and say: "He promises well, and therefore I will accept these promises as truth." That is not the wisdom of democracy. That is the sort of spoon feeding that may result in losing our freedom by default.

We do not believe that it is in the character of the people to whom we belong to turn their destinies over to any one, or to let themselves be circumscribed by a bureaucratic system, whatever it is called or however promising it may be made to appear. All the blood that flows in our veins demands that we shall be the masters of our own destiny, think our own thoughts, and be free to accomplish whatever God gave us the gift to accomplish. There is no other freedom for free men.

The Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, who more than any other single individual represents the spirit of these mighty races from which we spring has this to say:

"We must beware of trying to build a society in which no body counts for anything except the politician or official, a society where enterprise gains no reward and thrift no privileges. I say try to build because of all the races in the world our people would be the last to consent to be governed by a bureaucracy. Freedom is their lifeblood. We expect taxation after the war, but we do not intend to shape our plans or levy taxation in a way which by removing personal incentive would destroy initiative and enterprise."

If we think there is some ready-made system that will suddenly restore the liberties we have lost and assure us against the inequalities and injustices that we see, we are doomed to disappointment. The remedy is a bit in government but in people—people who still stand on their own feet, think their own thoughts through, and themselves fight for a better world.

port the political party which advocates the plans which the editors believe will be in the interest of the nation as a whole with some bias toward the special interest of the area in which the particular paper is circulated.

The overwhelming opposition of the Canadian daily and weekly press to the policies of the C.C.F. does not arise from "capitalist" bribery. It comes from the fact that the C.C.F. is not a political party in the ordinary sense. The C.C.F. starts from the assumption that Canada as Canada now exists, is not the sort of country which should be allowed to exist any longer. It assumes that the whole system of our society is, and always has been, wrong. It demands the destruction of the civil rights of Canadians, to own property, to seek employment which they would desire, to receive payment of the money which the government and other institutions have borrowed from them, or from the banks and insurance companies to which they have entrusted their savings.

Some of its spokesmen advocate physical violence as a method of "reforming" society. Others talk of the use of force to obtain acceptance of the laws which they propose to enact. Others suggest the suppression of free discussion of public affairs.

Some of its spokesmen urge that no one may be permitted to own any property which can be used to produce wealth. Others would limit compensation to the ownership of certain forms of property only.

Some of them want to tear up the Constitution. Others demand that we walk out of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

It is the right of every Canadian to accept or reject any or all of this programme. The daily and weekly press of Canada has rejected it, by an overwhelming majority of opinion. The cries of rage which this fact produces, and the charges that the press is bribed or suborned will only add to the determination of the press to stand firmly against revolution.

her we like it or not. We have certain natural advantages but the Danes had one advantage that counterbalanced all these and will do so again if we don't follow their example.

They put to practical use all the modern information on improved methods of production and marketing whereas we, who consider ourselves progressive and enlightened agricultural producers, were on the average satisfied to follow old methods of production. It didn't work to our advantage before the war; it isn't working to our advantage now, and most certainly it won't work to our advantage

ARE WE PROGRESSIVE PRODUCERS

In the past fifty years we have seen the growth and development of the automotive industry. From the first crude specimens there have been constant improvements in motors, materials, tires, gasoline, and everything else that goes into making the automobile a more useful and economical means of transportation. The only thing that hasn't been improved to any noticeable extent is the average driver.

During the past fifty years there has been an equally phenomenal growth in the hog production industry in Canada. The types and breeds of hogs have been modified and improved to meet market demands. Knowledge of nutrition has been increased, disease control has advanced. All in all the two industries have been equally progressive but once again the driver, in this case the average hog producer, is the factor in which least improvement has been made.

Every hog producer conducts certain phases of the hog industry. He can no more afford to ignore advances in methods than can the manufacturer of cars. And yet the visitors and letters that come to our office give surprising evidence that our hog producers, to a large extent are not making use of the most recent advances in their production program.

Let us consider only one particular point at present. It is general experience and knowledge that one of the most difficult periods in hog production is the weaning period. This is the time when the young pigs change from a diet composed largely of milk to one completely different. The smaller this difference can be made, and the more gradually the change, the better will be the results. A protein supplement is a first essential and yet we hear almost daily from hog producers that they are weaning pigs without supplement and still are wondering why they have trouble with their pigs.

Whether we like it or not we may as well face the fact that there is competition between individual producers, between sections of Canada, and between Canada and other countries. The only way that we can meet this competition at any level is to be up to date and efficient in our production program.

We heard a good deal about Danish hog production before the war and we will hear more about it again after this war. There will be competition whet-

"Where You Get More of the Best for Less"

SOCIAL SECURITY

ernment and the League of Nations. Russia was more realistic. She never felt secure; so she prepared herself for the struggle she knew to be inevitable. That is the reason she was able to withstand the German attack. Was Stokerpear right when he said "Security is man's chief enemy?"

On Sunday I heard a very good preacher say that it is the duty of government to create conditions which will make possible the highest development of man's personality. No body will quarrel with that. But he went in to assume that the way to create such conditions is to provide man with social security, in order that he may be free to develop his personality, with out having to worry about his economic future.

It has not been the experience of the human race that security has produced the highest in man. Our preacher understood this, for he hastened to explain that if we are to have social security we will have to learn how to make proper use of our leisure time. Adam and Eve in the garden had social security and leisure time. All their wants were supplied with a minimum of effort on their part, and they felt secure in the thought that it would always be so. But they got into mischief and in order to keep them out of further mischief the Lord took away their social security and required them to earn their bread in the sweat of their faces. Will anyone say that the Lord's plan for developing the highest in our first parents was not a good one?

In seeking the solution of many problems the surest way is to inquire what Nature does, and try to profit from her wisdom. If we follow her way, we can hardly go wrong. If we depart from her way all our efforts will come to nought. And what is Nature's way? It is to make us struggle for everything we get. It is the struggle that develops man's faculties. Abolish the struggle and man will cease to develop. Create a world in which man can get everything he wants by voting for it and man will develop into an astute voter. But that is all he will be—not a very entrancing prospect. Those who get through life without a struggle are sometimes called lucky. In reality they are the most unfortunate of men. They contribute little to their own development or to the well-being of the race. They miss all the joy of the struggle. The best among us find more joy in the struggle than in the prize. Those who tell us we can vote ourselves into a full and satisfactory life are blind leaders of the blind. Even if they could fulfil their promises, it would not satisfy us, for the prize without the struggle brings little joy.
